PASS THE BILL.

THE HOLLINGSWORTH BILL, which provides that state officers who travel on passes shall not be entitled to collect mileage from the commonwealth, should be passed. It has become a practice to command that it may almost be called a custom, for state officers to ride on railroad passes and then turn in expense accounts for fare which they pretend to have paid. We have no objection to these gentlemen riding on passes if they desire to do so. That is a matter they must determine for themselves.
But we do object to officials taking money for expenses they have not incurred, just as we would object to paying them for services they have not rendered. It is a form of petty graft that should be tolerated no longer. When the law granting mileage to officers who are compelled to do more or less traveling was passed, it never contemplated the payment of money to those who paid out no money for traveling. We would like to see the collection of railroad fares by users of passes as anything but downright dishonesty.
The fact that it has become the custom by no means makes it right. The habitual commission of a wrong does not change that wrong into a virtue. Attempts have been made in previous legislatures to enact such a law as the Hollingsworth measure. Invariably, however, the officials and their friends have mustered enough influence to defeat it. We trust this legislature will look at this matter from the right standpoint. They should pass the bill.
Let the officials ride on passes by all means, if they can get passes, and if they desire to use them, but in the name of common honesty do not let them add to their incomes by cheap grafting.

A NEW ANAESTHETIC.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT IS MADE that at the University of Michigan a new anaesthetic that will take the place of chloroform and ether has been discovered. It is said that the discovery, which has been christened somnoform, does not depress the action of the heart and that it is in no way dangerous to those to whom it is administered. We are told that somnoform produces exactly the necessary degree of anaesthesia and that after the patient comes out from under its influence he does not suffer from nausea at all.
The advantages of somnoform, if it will really do all that is claimed for it, will be immediately apparent to all who have had experience with anaesthetics. The loss of life from chloroform and ether, when administered by skillful physicians and surgeons, is much smaller than most people suppose. We believe the death rate in all cases, that is, deaths directly attributable to chloroform, is something like one in 10,000, and in most of those instances it will be found that there was carelessness somewhere.
While the danger of losing one's life is small, still the average individual would be loath to take the one chance in 10,000, so that feature of somnoform is well worth considering. Another feature, the absence of nausea, will be regarded by many as more important than the other. Patients are often very ill for hours after coming out from under the influence of chloroform. This is most unfortunate for, after a serious operation, it is extremely desirable that the patient be kept quiet. A nauseated patient cannot be kept quiet and harm frequently results.
It is greatly to be hoped that somnoform will operate as described and that it will speedily come into general use.

NEW MEN IN LINE.

IF A BILL that has been favorably reported by the house committee on elections is adopted the secretary of agriculture and the secretary of commerce will be placed in the line of presidential succession in the order named. These officials are entitled to whatever honor there may be in a place in the line of succession. But they will both be so far away that the chances of their ever succeeding to the presidency through the death, resignation or disability of those ahead of them are as one to one billion.
It is hardly to be supposed that the president, the vice president, the secretary of state, the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of war, the attorney general, the postmaster general, the secretary of the navy and the secretary of the interior will all die in the course of four years. The resignation and disability features are not worth considering, because when a cabinet officer resigns his place is filled immediately. The same thing is true with regard to deaths in the cabinet and cases of disability are also in that class.
The reason the secretary of agriculture and the secretary of commerce are to be placed in the line now is that their departments had not been created at the time the president pro tem of the senate and the speaker of the house were taken out of the succession line and the heads of the then existing cabinet departments substituted. We do not apprehend any serious objection to the bill. It is a good thing to have plenty of presidential timber, if not material, to fall back upon when it is needed.

The committee that recommended the passage of the bill also calls attention to grave defects in the law governing the election of the president and vice president. It is generally known, we believe, that in case of the death of a president or vice president-elect no method of choosing their successors is provided. Horace Greely, it will be remembered, died between the election and the inauguration of Grant, but as he was a minority candidate no great difference was made.

If a president-elect should die the members of the electoral college would be free to vote for whoever they pleased and the result might be a deadlock or a thwarting of the people's will that might lead to most unfortunate complications. This is exactly what a new law should be designed to prevent.

THE INSURANCE BUSINESS.

THE GROWTH of the insurance business is one of the most phenomenal features of the country's development during the last ten years, according to the American Underwriter, which furnished figures in support of the statement. The Underwriter considers the decade between 1894 and 1904 "a decade without a parallel in the history of American insurance." Illustrative of the gains made by the insurance business the following comparisons are offered:
"Manufacturers, total value, $14,029,326,883; increase of 33.9 per cent over 1893.
"Railways, gross earnings, $1,900,446,907; increase of 55.7 per cent over 1893.
"Exports, domestic and foreign, $1,421,417,737; increase of 67.5 per cent over 1893.
"Customs receipts, $244,479,582; increase of 39.8 per cent over 1893.
"Internal revenue receipts, $220,810,124; increase of 43.3 per cent over 1893.
"Postoffice department receipts, $134,244,433; increase of 76.8 per cent over 1893.
"American insurance, gross receipts, $798,471,317; increase of 102.2 per cent over 1893.
Other interesting figures as follows are given:
In 1893 the gross receipts of 201 insurance companies were $394,973,396; in 1903 the gross receipts of 246 companies aggregated $798,471,317. In 1893 the payments to policy holders amounted to $208,673,350 and in 1903 they reached $344,849,151. Total admitted assets in 1893 were $1,241,672,255 and in 1903 they were $2,851,045,825. In 1893 the surplus funds were $165,764,206 and in 1903 they were $465,357,071. From a total of 1,671,039 policies and risks in force in 1893, the number grew to 4,428,627 in 1903.
The insurance commissioner of the state of New York has also been gathering figures. They show, as the other figures show, that about one-fourth of the wealth of the nation is in the hands of the insurance companies; that their assets are equal to nearly one-fourth of the capital stock of all the railways; that they could capitalize all the national banks several times over; that their cash and easily convertible assets are almost as great as all the deposits in all the savings banks.
And the insurance business in this country is not such an old institution, either, if a very few of the companies are excepted.

ADVERTISING UTAH.

THE DENVER & RIO GRANDE system has begun the circulation of the thirteenth edition of Colonel Pat Donagh's "Utah." The edition consists of 130,000 copies and it would be hard to overestimate its value to the state. The work contains eighty pages of descriptions and illustrations. No expense has been spared to make it, as handsome and complete as money and pains could make it. And when Colonel Donagh wrote "Utah" he made all other descriptions written before and since look weak, puny, colorless.

For instance, after more than exhausting the ordinary store of adjectives in describing the natural beauties of the state and its mineral and agricultural wealth, he continues:
"As the dazzling bosom-jewel of the whole transcendent scene, spread out before your eyes, is the most majestic and mysterious lake whose waters hold in solution wealth enough to leave a fortune for every man, woman and child from Cape Cod to Yuba Dam, and over all throw the glow of a climate unsurpassed under heaven since the dawn of time, and Eden, and the diamond sapphire than ever bent under crystal arches the far-famed, beggar-bombed and flecked Bay of Naples, or the Lake of Como, on whose ethereal shores the bogus ranch of that glib-tongued bunco-steerer, Claude Melnotte—and you have a poor faint, puny approximation to an idea of Utah."

The book is well worth reading, if only for the purpose of ascertaining the possibilities of the English language. It is worth reading, too, for the wealth of information it contains about the state, and it is worth preserving for both the information and the illustrations that accompany it.
A contemporary calls the czar a coward. We hardly think that just. Any man who would stick to a throne under the conditions prevailing in Russia must be far from being a coward. Most of us would have abdicated a long time ago.

How would you like to live in Redfield, South Dakota? It was 45 degrees below zero there yesterday. Here we are looking for the fruit trees to bloom almost any day.
A man drove an automobile a mile in less than 33 seconds in Florida Tuesday. This is interesting, but will it add to the sum of human happiness if it is shown that an automobile can be driven a mile in 30 seconds, even, or 5, or one?

COULDN'T BE A CATHOLIC.

To the Salt Lake Herald:
For the information of readers who may have gained an erroneous impression from the article in the Herald of Jan. 30, under the caption "May Apostatize to Wed Again," also "Cannot Remain Catholic," I desire to say that if, as stated, Dora Young was twice divorced when she married Judge Hagan, and the latter caused his wife to be confined in an insane asylum, presumably also getting a divorce, it was absolutely and utterly impossible for Dora Young to become or to be a Catholic; further, it was just as impossible for Judge Hagan to remain a Catholic, if he were one previous to his marriage to her.

A CATHOLIC READER.

I think it no more than just that you correct this. Every Catholic knows it well, but as several inquiries have been made by non-Catholics about this article, I think your attention should be called to it.

HAD 'EM SCRAMBLED.

(Philadelphia Press.)
A salesman in a department store who possesses considerable skill in the restaurant in the central section of the city told him he wanted two fried eggs.

"I want one egg fried on one side and the other egg fried on the other side, and I want them quick," the salesman added.

"Would you kindly wait that on a piece of paper," said the waiter, "I'll tell you I haven't got time. Be quick, I tell you."

"One fried egg fried on both sides and the other fried egg fried on the other side," muttered the Irishman as he was leaving the table.

In a few minutes the salesman heard much commotion in the kitchen. The waiter rushed up to the salesman, exclaimed: "Say, I had a terrible fight with the cook about those eggs and you'll have to take them scrambled."
